

HealthyAuburn

Month | September 2019

In an effort to support a healthy, happy community, the City of Auburn is proud to present HEALTHY AUBURN MONTH, part of Auburn's 150th celebration! There are many components of health, including emotional, physical and mental health. The practices of good health include physical activity, healthy eating, social interaction and support from others.

We will kick things off on September 1st where the website will feature a calendar: <https://www.auburn150.com/healthy-auburn>

150th Celebration Committee Report

Date of Committee Meeting(s) Held: [Type here]

Committee Name: History Committee

Report Submitted by: Rachel Desgrosseilliers

Please provide an update for the following areas and list any additional information needed to be reported below in the section labeled 'Other'.

Accomplishments (items that have been confirmed) Historic Walking Tour was held June 8 with 18 people in attendance. WLU opened up for all who visited. A couple people on the tour were able to add information of historical facts to the tour which lasted about 1 hour 10 minutes. Since it was enjoyed by all, Rick is looking to do another tour on Oct. 19th at 10am.

Click or tap here to enter text.

Work in Progress With regard to the Properties Inventory & seminar, Rick mentioned that he hadn't had time to work on the seminar. Rachel mentioned that if we could, it would be important to at least try and do the historic properties inventory so that we would have something to leave the City at the end of the year. The seminar could hold off but we should try and do the inventory or at least start it. Rick said he would talk to the GIS office and Rachel mentioned that she will be meeting with Bates College looking for projects for students so she will see if she could get someone to work with Rick on the inventory.

WLU Fashion Show & Antique is ready to go on Sept. 14 with 5-7 antique cars as well as several vignettes of period times that people can walk through the house and view at their leisure. Posters were handed out to be distributed to help advertise the happening.

Rachel reported that the Shoe Exhibit has been very well received and viewed by people from all around. Most are amazed at how involved Auburn was in the shoe industry. There will be a soft closing of the exhibit around Nov. 4th to prepare for the holiday exhibit.

The Shoe Fashion Show which is part of the programming on shoes is being held on Sept. 20th at Museum L-A. The community has been invited to participate by bringing in shoes that have a great story to tell or are very meaningful to a person. Entries are now being accepted. Posters of the event were distributed.

Promotion/Marketing Requests *All requests will be reviewed by the City Managers Office.

Will have WLU and Museum L-A forward info on the upcoming events.

PARTNER UPDATE

A NEWSLETTER FOR PARTNERS OF AUBURN'S 150TH CELEBRATION

EDITION 2 | JUNE 28, 2019

A Message to our Partners:

Once again, THANK YOU for your generous support of Auburn's 150th. We are grateful to have you by our side as we celebrate the heritage, history and honor of our beautiful City.

We are half-way through our year-long celebration and it has been an amazing journey so far! Thanks to your support, Auburn's 150th has been a resounding success.

New Year's Auburn was the most successful and talked-about event in recent memory. The bands (and food trucks) were SO good; attendance was astounding for a first-year event; and the weather cooperated long enough for us to get in an EPIC fireworks show! We can't wait for New Year's 2019!!

Our Birthday Celebration on February 22nd truly showcased Auburn's deep community pride. More than 30 "cake sites" across the city served more than 2,000 pieces of birthday cake! And we had a lovely event here at Auburn Hall to commemorate the day, including video messages from Senators Collins & King. Best of all, we welcomed Auburn's "Sesquicentennial Baby," born on 2/22/19 (see page 5)!

Memorial Day in Auburn was INCREDIBLE, with an epic, 70-unit, 2-hour parade attended by thousands; a hugely successful, first-ever "Art in the Park" juried art show; even a Civil War Encampment in Moulton Park.

Other events included: "Keep it Local, Auburn" week, which encouraged our community to shop local; "Earth Day, Auburn," which promoted community clean-up efforts; as well as a mile-long, guided "Historic Walking Tour" of Auburn's downtown historic buildings.

There is much more to come this year, including a fun "1965-66 Full-size Chevrolet Night" on Festival Plaza with music from the 60's and lots of classic cars on display; Auburn's Summer Festival; "Healthy Auburn Month" and the 2nd Annual "Riverwalk Blues & Arts Festival," in September; and our final signature event: "Come Home, Auburn," our giant Edward Little High School homecoming weekend!

We are proud to present these extraordinary community events with your support and participation! Thank you for making it all possible.

*Mayor Jason Levesque &
the 150th Celebration Committee*

AUBURN — Mayor Jason Levesque told an audience at Auburn Hall on Friday that he took a "go big or go home" approach to the city's 150th birthday celebration.

So, for those gathered at the ceremony Friday morning, that meant two large sheet cakes cut with a sword by Maine pagans and video tributes from U.S. Sens. Susan Collins and Angus King. A video penned by President Donald Trump was framed in the middle of the room, and a former

In honor of the Auburn's Sesquicentennial Celebration, you are invited to take this 1.1 mile stroll through our streets to enjoy the City's rich architectural heritage.

OTHER HISTORIC AUBURN PROPERTIES:

Charles Jordan House (1880) 63 Academy Street
Beautiful Victorian Second Empire structure recently damaged by arson but in the process of being restored.

Holman Day House (1895) Corner of Court & Goff Streets
One of Maine's finest Queen Anne style homes. Built for the famous American author & editor, who was born in Vassalboro and was a graduate of Colby College.

Frank Dingley House (1867) 290 Court Street
Fantastic Second Empire brick structure with mansard roof. Frank was editor of the Lewiston Evening Journal for many years.

Gay-Munroe House (1876) 84 Highland Avenue
Designed by Storrs & Coates for a shoe manufacturer.

William A. Robinson House (1874) 11 Forest Avenue
A fine Late Gothic Revival home built for Mr. Robinson, a druggist, and the only remaining work of architect Herbert W. Benson, who was Welsh immigrant. Interesting translation of design usually done in stone or brick into an ornate wooden structure.

Webster Grammar School (1914) 95 Hampshire Street
Designed by Harry Corbett, this colonial revival office served as a school for 30 years and was converted to housing in 2012. The same year it received a Preservation Honor Award from Maine Preservation.

Knight House (1798) Adjacent to Great Falls on the Riverwalk
Built by David Lincoln in downtown Auburn, then purchased by Webster Knight, a butcher. It was moved to its current site several years ago. Object would travel house in Auburn's downtown area.

Charles Cushman House (1889) 8 Cushman Place
Folkstone structure with Queen Anne traits designed by George Coates for a prominent shoe manufacturing family.

Barker Mill (1871-73) 143 Mill Street
A three thousand-squared brick mill, with a higher degree of decorative styling than most mills of the era, it was designed by Maine architect Charles Doughter and named for its directing agent, C.J. Barker. Built in conjunction with the Little Androscoggin Water Power Company that built a dam just south of the mill, it was placed on the National Register in 1978. It now has 117 apartments for the elderly and is owned and operated by Auburn Housing Authority.

Their Auburn brew pub is a warm and welcoming space in the classic Gritty style, long wooden tables, copper bar top and traditional brick work. The spacious deck features the best riverfront views in town, and the glass-enclosed, rooftop brewery brings the working of a true pub brewery right to Main Street. And of course, their kitchen serves up the finest in traditional pub fare.
