Subject: Downtown Inventory & Scoring Model

Information: City staff are working on a photo-based inventory of downtown housing characteristics.

The inventory utilizes photos and a survey form, put together from CDBG Housing Rehabilitation Standards with additional input from multiple city departments. We hope that this project will provide a low-cost way to conduct field surveys and can be expanded in the future.

Once complete, staff will put together a scoring model that will allow us to visualize and explore the data both visually and in map-based formats and to combine this data with those data from other city systems – for example, code complaints, building permits, PD, FD, etc. The data will be summarized and published in a way that will provide meaningful information to staff and council, while remaining respectful of individual properties.

City Budgetary Impacts: Staff time and less than $1,000 for equipment.

Staff Recommended Action:

Continue project with presentation of results to council in approximately 6-8 weeks.

Subject: Veteran relocation and development incentive program

Information: Mayor Jason Levesque has requested the City of Auburn explore veteran incentive options for building a home / business in Auburn. With Auburn having been nationally recognized by LendEDU as one of the most affordable cities for veteran homebuyers. Full study here: https://lendedu.com/blog/most-affordable-cities-for-veteran-homebuyers/. The question was raised as to what more can be done for our veterans and at the same time encourage growth in Auburn.

The study analyzed the most up-to-date data on over 25,000 American cities, they first found the 1,000 cities that have the highest proportions of veterans and active military members within their populations. Those 1,000 cities were then ranked according to each one's percentage of homes where the mortgage costs 30% or more of the household income. A lower percentage was more favorable.

Specifically, 8.17% of Auburn's population is comprised of veterans and active military members, and only 25.41% of the houses in Auburn have a mortgage that costs 30% or more of the household income.

These numbers ranked Auburn #456 in the country and #2 in Maine.

Possible incentives would include:

- Residential Construction- A Veteran*, or contractor on behalf of a Veteran, pulling permitting for new construction or rehabilitation of existing property will have all fees waived/reimbursed at time of permit approval. This applies to single family and up to three-unit multifamily buildings.
- Commercial Construction A Veteran owned business* or contractor working under contract for a Veteran owned business*, pulling permitting for new construction or rehabilitation of existing property will have 50% of fees waived/reimbursed at time of permit approval.

*Veterans-Honorably discharged from federal service, must present DD-214 to Economic and Community Development office for fees to be waived.

Veteran owned business as defined by the SBA being a corporation in which 51% of the shares of the company are owned by a Veteran.

City Budgetary Impacts: Reduction in revenue from permit fees

Council discuss and decide if you would like staff to present an order to proceed. Staff will also provide you with estimated impacts to revenue.

Information: Over time we have asked the Council to make changes to our Housing Code to better address conditions that are detrimental to residents and the community. Some changes have been made while others have been seen as too far reaching. Staff is recommending some basic changes that will improve our ability to address blight and ensure a safe housing stock, which will also expand access to our CDBG Spot Rehab funds. A poorly maintained building impacts the decisions of abutting property owners and reduces investment in surrounding properties. Poor housing quality makes it harder to attract residents to the area which further reduces market competition and demand for a particular neighborhood. Likewise, a poorly managed building that allows for trash and debris problems, nuisance noise and/or pervasive criminal activity affects the behavior of other residents and can become more widespread in a neighborhood, with impacts that are similar to a poorly maintained building. Generally, a poorly maintained building in a neighborhood is also a poorly managed building. When we address a code complaint, we often see only a portion of a building or the exterior based on the complaint and ensure the specific issue is corrected. Staff is attempting to be more targeted and wholistic in our approach to stopping the spread of blight and improve the overall quality of life in targeted areas by looking at three criteria and targeting more intensive whole building inspections at properties that meet two or more of the following criteria: 1. Multiple verified Code Complaints in the last 12 months; 2. Exterior evidence of blight and/or a lack of maintenance; and 3. Higher than average emergency call volumes at a property. We will also target financial resources to properties that need the investment with our Spot Rehab Program if property owners are willing to work towards improvements. Making it known that we are targeting our approach to better address to address blight, ensure a safe housing stock and maintain high quality of life in our downtown neighborhoods will help achieve Strategic Plan Growth Goal 5, page 11 and page 24. The proposed changes will allow staff to better address the condition of buildings that contribute to blight and ensure safe housing.

City Budgetary Impacts: None. Improved housing conditions with more effective ordinance to address blight and deterioration as well as expanded access to our Spot Rehab Program.

Staff Recommended Action: Passed first reading on 11-2-2020. Hold public hearing and approval of second reading on November 16, 2020.

Previous Meetings and History: Workshop October 19, 2020 and passage of first reading on 11-2-2020.

The Importance of Masking

There are four reasons the Mayor, City Council members, and City Staff should consistently wear masks when interacting in person with each other:

- Maine State policy requires that people wear masks when interacting indoors with individuals not in their household bubble. The current directive clearly says that the definition of public places to be 'broadly construed'. The deciding factor for requiring a mask is that one is indoors with a group of people not in one's household. The virus does not differentiate between members the public (defined by Merriam-Webster as 'the people as a whole') and elected, appointed, or hired public officials.
- Maine is in a new phase of the pandemic. We no longer have stable numbers with isolated and controlled spread. All of our metrics are increasing at a very concerning rate. Maine's daily average of new cases is five times higher than a month ago. Maine's reproductive rate is now high. About 20% of Maine's total cases have occurred in the last 2 weeks. Infectors are increasingly common in our communities, asymptomatic infectors cause about half of new cases, and for about half of Maine's cases, we cannot identify the source. The spread is now primarily through small gatherings in homes, work-related exposures, and random encounters with incomplete attention to risk mitigation. Hospitalizations, ICU use, and deaths are all beginning to increase. We are just entering the season when we spend more time indoors, holidays generate pressure to have more family and friend social gatherings, and young people will be returning from college.
- Making Auburn safe for economic and social activity will require that every person in Auburn conscientiously follows the guidelines. This will not happen without effective leadership that clearly and consistently models the behavior necessary to control transmission.
- Universal and consistent masking is a key piece of limiting spread and lower prevalence. The science and logic behind this is reviewed in greater detail below. Carefully parsing the guidelines to find the smallest response that is technically in compliance does not serve public health or the community, any more than driving at 65 mph on the turnpike in bad conditions is safe, even though the posted limit is 65 mph.

The Science

Lowering prevalence and controlling community spread of SARS-CoV-2 are necessary if we want to be able to safely open our businesses and resume our social behaviors. Until we have successfully acquired satisfactory community immunity through a vaccine, pandemic control will depend on consistently applying a layered set of non-pharmacologic interventions (NPIs). These are additive, not exclusive, and the concept of layered mitigation is nicely described by the Swiss cheese analogy, where each filter contributes significantly, all filters are useful, and each filter should be maximized to the extent possible:

The key factors in spread are closeness of contact, duration of contact, number of exposures, characteristics of the activity, shared air (or ventilation), and source control (masking). When people gather to interact in person and indoors, risk can be reduced by attention to all these factors.

Distancing: Indoors, people should maintain at least 6 feet between individuals. There is nothing magic about 6 feet, which provides protection primarily against the large 'ballistic droplets' that fall to the ground within seconds and rarely travel more than 6-8 feet. Greater spacing provides greater protection against the smaller droplets and aerosols which contribute very significantly to transmission, especially in super spreader events.

Crowds: The number and heterogeneity of the interacting individuals is directly related to the risk of an infective person being present.

Duration: the longer one is in an indoor environment with other individuals, the greater the risk of infection. Passing by is considered a minimal risk, under 15 minutes is considered low risk, and exposures measured in hours are considered high risk. A recent study showed that conversation with an infector for more than 30 minutes was associated with a threefold increase in risk.

Activity: There is a continuum of volume of exhaled particles, from sitting quietly and speaking softly, to speaking loudly, to yelling, to breathing hard with excitement or exertion, to singing. Removing a mask to speak is counterproductive, akin to wearing one's seat belt in the driveway where the risk is low but removing it on the road where the risk is higher.

Ventilation: The virus is spread almost exclusively by breathing shared air, so the volume of air in the indoor space is important, as is air movement and mixing, air replacement, and air temperature and humidity. The more often the indoor air is replaced with clean outdoor air, the better. Understanding the impact of ventilation requires some information about airborne spread. Different size particles are involved:

Size	Settling time	Air speed	Distance	Comments
1 micron	14 hours	10 cm/sec	3 miles	These are about 1000 x greater than the virus particle, by volume.
5 microns	33 minutes		650 feet	volume.
10 microns	8 minutes		200 feet
50 microns	< 30 seconds		6-8 feet	These are the large 'ballistic droplets' that historically led to the 6-foot number before the role of aerosols was understood.

With exhaled air, it is not the number of particles but the volume of particles that determines the amount of virus expelled and contained in the shared breathing space. The bulk of the exhaled volume is the 1-3 micron particles, which carry the largest amount of infective virus and is important in two ways:

- The small particles create an easily inhaled local 'cloud' of viral particles around the exhale. These droplets are most concentrated around the exhale, can penetrate well into the respiratory tree of the inhaler, and are an important factor in close-contact spread.
- The small particles also create the far-field or background concentration of viral particles that accumulate steadily, proportional to the number of people in the room and how hard they are breathing, and inversely proportional to the volume of air in the room and the efficiency of air exchange with the outside.

HEPA filters of MEV 13 or greater can help considerably with the far-field or background concentration of exhaled viral particles but do next to nothing about close-contact exposure. In a hospital setting in an isolation room with negative pressure air flow and double HEPA filters, healthcare workers are still require to wear masks for safety.

Masks help with both far-field and local close contact crowd exposure.

Cool and dry indoor winter air appear to cause the liquid in medium-sized droplets to evaporate, resulting in smaller droplets that remain airborne longer. The impact of this is unclear, but may be a risk factor for indoor super spreader events related to air conditioning.

Source control: The primary components of source control are:

- Limiting the size of the gathering.
- Screening before entry. Questionnaires, temperature screening, antigen testing can reduce the number of infective individuals present in a group, but since these have significant false negatives and since 40-50% of spread is from individuals with no symptoms at the time of transmission, these are not stand-alone measures and provide only a small measure or risk mitigation.
- Avoiding activities that increase the volume and force of air exhaled including loud talking, shouting, singing, exertion.
- Masking. The science behind masking is complicated and detailed, but the evidence is robust and the bottom line is crystal clear. Masking is safe and inexpensive. it works to slow transmission. By lowering SARS-CoV-2 prevalence and community spread, it is key to opening more and more of our normal economy and social activity. It is probably the most effective tool we have at this time and should be added to all the other measures in nearly all circumstances. Masking does not become optional because we have deployed other mitigation efforts, any more than seat belts are unnecessary because we have air bags.

With regard to source control, it is important to consider the viral load excreted by the infective individual. About 40-50% of spread comes from asymptomatic individuals and even with screening it is impossible to be sure there are no infective individuals in a group. The primary period of viral spread begins about 2 days (48 hours) before symptoms appear and lasts about 4 days, until about 2 days (48 hours) after the appearance of symptoms. In general, the sicker a person becomes, the longer they will shed infective virus.

Two New England anecdotes serve to illustrate how easily and quickly SARS-CoV-2 can spread and impact a very wide circle of our families, friends, co-workers, and community members.

Russell Park Manor had one case on a Wednesday and 71 case 5 days later. We don't know yet how many secondary and tertiary cases, hospitalizations, ICU stays or deaths this will generate. At the very least, this represents 71 individuals and their families and close contacts who now have to do some combination of self-quarantining for up to 2 weeks and testing.

A Vermont hockey league had worked extremely hard to resume safe practice and play. They set up appropriate guidelines and protocols and did well with no cases or outbreaks for a couple months. Then ONE INDIVIDUAL misbehaved. He traveled to care for a relative with COVID. When he returned, he did not self-quarantine and he did not inform his teammates and he lied on the screening form. His small group skipped one of the protocols, changing at the rink. The result was an extended outbreak among players and their families. It caused the switch to remote for an elementary school which impacted 400 families.

The message of these two true episodes (they are not metaphors or made-up examples) is that the virus does not tire. It simply looks for every opportunity it can find to spread. The more opportunities we give it, the further and faster it will spread and the more economic damage, severe illnesses, and even death it will cause.

I encourage the Mayor, the City Councilors, the City staff, and all those wonderful volunteers on city committees to respect and protect our community. Be conscientious about all the layers of the Swiss cheese mitigation model. Socially distance. And MASK.

- REF: October 2020 Financial Report
- DATE: November 9, 2019

The following is a discussion regarding the significant variances found in the City's October financial report. Please note that although the monthly financial report contains amounts reported by the School Department, this discussion is limited to the City's financial results and does not attempt to explain any variances for the School Department.

The City has completed its fourth month of the current fiscal year. As a guideline for tracking purposes, revenues and expenditures should amount to approximately 33.3% of the annual budget. However, not all costs and revenues are distributed evenly throughout the year; individual line items can vary based upon cyclical activity.

Revenues

Revenues collected through October 31st, including the school department were $39,406,976, or 42.10%, of the budget. The municipal revenues including property taxes were $30,147,056, or 47.23% of the budget which is more than the same period last year by $1,163,201. The accounts listed below are noteworthy.

- A. September 15th the first installment for real estate taxes were due. The current year tax revenue is at 49.6% as compared to 49.72% last year or $116,868 than last year.
- B. Excise tax for the month of October is at 45.83%. This is a $371,955 increase from FY 20. Our excise revenues for FY21 are 12.5% above projections as of October 31, 2020.
- C. State Revenue Sharing for the month of October is 44.33% or $1,200,674. This is an increase from last October of $229,289.

Expenditures

City expenditures through October 2020 were $22,892,690 or 49.84%, of the budget. This is 6.98% more than the same period last year. Noteworthy variances are:

- A. Worker's Comp is higher than last year at this time by $641,910. The transfer to the Workers Comp fund was made earlier this year than last year.
- B. Public Safety is more than last year by $124,373.
- C. The TIF Transfer was posted earlier this year than last, so it shows and increase of $2,845,623.
- D. Water and Sewer is higher than last year due to the increase in the Hydrant Quarterly Charge.

Investments

This section contains an investment schedule as of October 31st. Currently the City's funds are earning an average interest rate of 0.9% compared to 1.87% at this time last year.

Respectfully submitted,
